

Move on When Reading

ARS 15-701

You may remember hearing on the news about some changes in State Law regarding reading achievement. It was commonly referred to as “Move On When Reading”. It is our responsibility to inform you that in 2010, the Arizona Legislature enacted some changes to our State Statutes that will impact your child. Arizona Revised Statute 15-701 states in order for your child to be eligible for promotion from third grade to fourth grade, he/she must not fail the State reading test (currently it is called AIMS) at the end of third grade. There are provisions in the law for some students who are unable to pass the reading exam, and you may view the full text of the law by visiting the Arizona Legislature website. Here is the link:
